Registration Requirements by Supports and Services

The supports and services that NDIS providers are registered to deliver or are seeking to deliver determines the NDIS Practice Standards that an NDIS provider must undertake an assessment against.

The NDIS Practice Standards consist of a core module and several supplementary modules that apply according to the types of supports and services NDIS providers deliver.

The Core module covers:

- rights and responsibility for participants

- governance and operational management

- the provision of supports, and

- the support provision environment

The supplementary modules cover:

- High intensity daily personal activities

- Specialist behaviour support, including implementing behaviour support plans

- Early childhood supports

- Specialised support co-ordination

- Specialist disability accommodation, and

- Verification

Supports and services

The National Disability Insurance Agency (NDIA) works with NDIS participants to develop individual plans to access supports and services that are considered 'reasonable and necessary' to help achieve the person's goals. Providers must be registered to deliver supports and services to NDIS participants who have their plan managed by the NDIA. The support items available to be provided by providers under the NDIS is determined by the NDIA with each support item and service grouped under 'Registration class/groups'. The NDIS Commission is responsible for assessing the quality and competency of a provider through it's registration function.

Audit type;

A Verification audit is required for all NDIS providers that deliver lower risk/lower complexity supports and services.

A Certification audit is required for all NDIS providers that provide more complex or higher risk supports and services.
