

Registration Requirements by Supports and Services

The supports and services that NDIS providers are registered to deliver or are seeking to deliver, and the corporate structure of the provider determines the NDIS Practice Standards that an NDIS provider must undertake an assessment against..

The NDIS Practice Standards consist of a core module and several supplementary modules that apply according to the types of supports and services NDIS providers deliver.

The Core module covers:

- rights and responsibility for participants
- governance and operational management
- the provision of supports, and
- the support provision environment

The supplementary modules cover:

- High intensity daily personal activities
- Specialist behaviour support, including implementing behaviour support plans
- Early childhood supports
- Specialised support co-ordination
- Specialist disability accommodation, and
- Verification

Supports and services

The National Disability Insurance Agency (NDIA) works with NDIS participants to develop individual plans to access supports and services that are considered 'reasonable and necessary' to help achieve the person's goals. Providers must be registered to deliver supports and services to NDIS participants who have their plan managed by the NDIA. The support items available to be provided by providers under the NDIS is determined by the NDIA with each support item and service grouped under 'Registration class/groups'. The NDIS Commission is responsible for assessing the quality and competency of a provider to deliver registration groups through its registration function.

Corporate Structures

A Certification audit is required for all NDIS providers that are body corporates<sup>1</sup>, regardless of the supports and services they are registered to provide.

Individuals and partnerships can undergo a verification audit for certain supports and services.

The following table shows the NDIS Practice Standard modules that applies to Registration class/groups.
